Check out this article About Apple Digital AV Adapters for iPhone, iPad, and iPod touch. Specifically:Find out what to do when you have the following issues.Make sure that you're using a Digital AV adapter (which has an HDMI port). If you're using a VGA adapter, it doesn't carry audio signals. To hear audio with a VGA adapter, you need to connect to the headset jack on your TV, monitor, projector, or stereo.The app might not be compatible with your adapter. Check compatibility on the app's info page in the App Store or contact the developer.Your content might not be compatible with your adapter. Movies, TV shows, and certain streaming video apps require High-Bandwidth Digital Content Protection (HDCP). If you try to play these movies, shows, and streaming videos using a non-HDCP digital connection—like the Apple VGA Adapter—an alert will ask for an HDCP-compatible device.Disconnect and reconnect your adapter from your iPhone, iPad, or iPod touch and from your TV, monitor, or projector.Make sure that your VGA or HDMI cable works, since the issue could be with the cable.Remove any VGA or HDMI extension cables or converters. Accessories that convert a VGA or HDMI signals to different video formats (DVI, Composite, Component) aren't compatible.Make sure that you have the latest version of iOS.For more help, contact Apple Support, to set up service for you:Let me know the results and take care! This is the 2nd $65 adaptor purchased that stoped working. I've plead the case personally to my phone service provider V Who stated there's nothing they can do and didn't have television or monitor with HDMI port to even test it for me help confirm if its software/hardware. Went to retailer T where adaptors were purchased as they sell TVs also.They refused my request to test. I tasked the Mgr if I purchase another new adaptor, May I test it before I leave the store I was refused again and offered the same 30 day warranty again. I explained that I'm disabled I live in a rule area we have no Internet other than my okNon weed cv wifi so this is my television here this is my Internet this is my phone.and today I was out looking for free Wi-Fi so I can do a backup prior to hard reset. which probably won't fix the problem either and I only lasted two of the five hours needed for the back up so I'm still stuck Mar 2, 2020 1:12 AM Reply Helpful (1) Thread reply - more options User profile for user: TruNiners Question: Q: Lightning to HDMI adapter stopped working after last update why is my apple lightning to digital av adapter not working. how to use lightning digital av adapter for ipad. why is my apple digital av adapter not working. does apple lightning digital av adapter support netflix. does apple lightning digital av adapter work with amazon prime
